Appeal from the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Central District of California

Honorable Lisa Hill Fenning, Bankruptcy Judge, Presiding

Before: JONES, MOOREMAN and VOLINN, Bankruptcy Judges

001536

1 The debtor, Del Rio Development ("Del Rio"), appeals the 2 trial court's order vacating a prior order which, in turn, had 3 vacated an order entered November 29, 1984. The latter order 4 dismissed Del Rio's bankruptcy effective April 1, 1985. We 5 AFFIRM.

6 FACTS

7 Prior to 1980, the Lee Mansdorf Family Trust ("Mansdorf 8 Trust"), Lee Mansdorf, Trustee, owned approximately 950 acres of 9 unimproved real property in Los Angeles known as the La Tuna 10 Canyon property ("La Tuna property"). In 1980 Mansdorf met Leon 11 Brukman. They agreed to develop the La Tuna property and in 12 early 1981 Mansdorf deeded the La Tuna property to a newly formed 13 corporation, Del Rio. In exchange, Mansdorf received all the 14 shares of Del Rio. Brukman was the president and sole director 15 of Del Rio and entered into a joint venture agreement with 16 Mansdorf giving Mansdorf the right to approve or disapprove of 17 steps taken toward development including encumbering the La Tuna 18 property. As sole director of Del Rio, Brukman authorized 19 himself to sell, transfer or otherwise encumber the La Tuna 20 property.

21 Del Rio borrowed over three million dollars from certain 22 investors known as Lender Limited Partnerships ("LLP"), giving 23 LLP ten promissory notes secured by first deeds of trust on the 24 La Tuna property. During April and May 1981, Mansdorf learned of 25 the Del Rio-LLP transactions. During the summer of 1981, the 26 loans went into default and LLP initiated foreclosure 27 proceedings.

28 On August 27, 1981 the Mansdorf Trust commenced an action in

1 California Superior Court to obtain a constructive trust over 2 certain proceeds obtained by Brukman and to enjoin the LLP 3 foreclosures. According to Mansdorf's declaration filed in the 4 state court proceeding, Brukman ran a "confidence game" on 5 Mansdorf. Brukman allegedly fraudulently induced Mansdorf to 6 convey the La Tuna property to Del Rio then embezzled the 7 $3,000,000 Del Rio borrowed from LLP.

8 On September 14, 1981, Mansdorf signed a letter "To whom it 9 may concern" in which he certified both that Del Rio was the 10 owner of the La Tuna property and that Mansdorf was the president 11 and director of Del Rio. On September 15, 1981, Del Rio deeded
12 the La Tuna property to the Mansdorf Trust. On February 16, 1982 13 Mansdorf, as trustee for the Mansdorf Trust, quitclaimed the 14 property back to Del Rio. Then, acting as president of Del Rio, 15 Mansdorf conveyed the property to La Tuna Properties Ltd. On 16 April 6, 1982, with title to the La Tuna property held by La Tuna 17 Properties Ltd., Mansdorf sought a temporary restraining order to 18 prevent LLP's foreclosure on the La Tuna property which was set 19 for the next day. The superior court refused to issue the TRO 20 and denied Mansdorf's application for a preliminary injunction in 21 part because the owner of the property, La Tuna Properties Ltd., 22 was not a party to the action. (Presumably, the TRO and 23 injunction were sought as part of the previously mentioned state 24 court lawsuit.)

25 On the following day, April 7, 1982, the La Tuna property
26 was transferred from La Tuna Properties Ltd. back to Del Rio 27 which promptly filed the bankruptcy petition that originally 28 commenced these proceedings. The bankruptcy petition was signed

1 by Mansdorf as president of Del Rio and listed the La Tuna 2 property as an asset of Del Rio. The automatic stay halted the 3 LLP foreclosures.

4 After two years without confirmation of a reorganization
5 plan, LLP sought relief from the automatic stay. By an order
6 entered June 26, 1984, the court granted LLP relief from the stay 7 allowing it to foreclose on the La Tuna properties. The June 26 8 order left the stay intact until July 17, 1986 so Del Rio could 9 try to submit a plan of reorganization or to refinance the La 10 Tuna properties allowing it to pay its secured creditors in full.
11 The order also recited that the court would hold a continued 12 hearing to determine the validity of foreclosure sales previously 13 conducted on behalf of LLP. The latter issue, however, was 14 resolved by a stipulation and order (dated June 24, 1986) 15 pursuant to which the foreclosures were found invalid under 16 Bankruptcy Code section 544 (a) (3). The order called for 17 rescission of all deeds executed as part of the foreclosures, 18 reinstatement of all deeds of trust, and left in effect the June 19 26 order lifting the automatic stay.

20 On October 3, 1984, Del Rio filed a motion to dismiss the 21 Chapter 11 proceeding. Del Rio's counsel declared in the motion 22 that "all of the automatic stays protecting [the La Tuna 23 property] have been vacated, and foreclosure of sales have been 24 ratified, and most of the real estate constituting the assets of 25 this corporation have been foreclosed upon by certain secured 26 creditors." LLP and other parties opposed the motion fearing 27 that if the case was dismissed, Del Rio would initiate another 28 proceeding to try to block foreclosure. LLP therefore asked the

67/25/12

1 court, per Judge Elliott, did by an order entered November 29, 2 1984.<sup>1</sup>

4 On September 18, 1985, LLP moved for summary adjudication of 5 issues in the state proceeding on the grounds that the plaintiff, 6 the Mansdorf Trust, did not have standing to assert title to the 7 La Tuna property. The superior court granted the motion for 8 summary adjudication and on March 19, 1986, the court granted
9 LLP's motion to convert the summary adjudication into summary 10 judgment. Accordingly, judgment was entered in favor of the 11 defendant, LLP, and against the Mansdorf Trust. The Trust 12 appealed and that appeal is now pending.

13 Meanwhile, Del Rio sought to reopen the bankruptcy
14 proceedings. On January 22, 1986, Del Rio filed an Application 15 to Vacate Order of Dismissal and to Reopen Chapter 11 Estate. The 16 application was not served on LLP. The application asserted that 17 dismissal of the case had been sought "based upon the mistake and 18 belief [sic] by this debtor that all of said property had been 19 foreclosed upon by all of the holders of notes and deeds of trust 20 . . ." but that certain foreclosures had not yet occurred and 21 might be preventable. After a hearing on the application, the 22 court, per Judge Fenning, entered an order vacating the Elliott
23 order and reopening the bankruptcy proceeding.<sup>2</sup>

24
25 <sup>1</sup> This order will hereinafter be referred to as the "Elliott order."

26
27 <sup>2</sup> It appears that Del Rio wants its bankruptcy case 28 activated so that a trustee could reexamine the loan transactions through which the LLP obtained the deeds of trust and determine whether the LLP transactions involving the La Tuna property may be unwound.

001540

When LLP learned that Del Rio's application had been granted, it filed a motion to dismiss the "reopened" proceeding. LLP argued that the court lacked jurisdiction to vacate the Elliott order pursuant to FRCP 60 (b) because Del Rio's motion to vacate that order was filed more than one year after November 26, 1984 when the order was entered. The bankruptcy court agreed and vacated its prior order which had vacated the Elliott order. Del Rio timely appealed.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

The sole question before the Panel is whether the bankruptcy court properly interpreted the Elliott order. This is analogous to the interpretation of statutes, contracts, and consent decrees, all of which are questions of law and subject to de novo review. See Chrysler Credit Corp. v. First Nat'l Bank and Trust Co., 746 F.2d 200, 202 (3rd Cir. 1984) (statutory construction is question of law reviewable de novo); Vertex Dist. Co. v. Falcon Foam Plastics, Inc., 689 F.2d 885, 892-93 (9th Cir. 1982) (construction of contracts and consent decrees is question of law reviewable de novo) (quoting United States v. ITT Continental Baking Co., 420 U.S. 223, 236-37 (1975)). In the case at bar, moreover, the judge construing the order is not the same judge who issued it. Thus, we need not give additional weight to the court's interpretation of the order. Cf. Oldham v. Pritchett, 599 F.2d 274, 281 (3rd Cir. 1979) (trial court's conclusion that collateral estoppel applied was entitled to great weight because the same judge presided at both proceedings).

DISCUSSION

Bankruptcy Rule 9024 makes Rule 50 of the Federal Rules of

1 Civil Procedure ("FRCP 60") applicable to bankruptcy proceedings
2 with two exceptions not relevant to the instant case.<sup>3</sup> FRCP 3 60(b) allows a court to provide relief from a final judgment or 4 order when the reason for the relief is mistake, inadvertence, 5 surprise or excusable neglect. A motion seeking such relief must 6 be made within a reasonable time not more than one year after the 7 judgment or order is entered.

8 The Elliott order was entered on the docket November 29, 9 1984, but stated that Del Rio's bankruptcy was dismissed 10 effective April 1, 1985. Del Rio did not seek relief from the 11 order until January 22, 1986, more than one year after the 12 Elliott order was entered but less than one year after the April 13 effective date of the dismissal. The only question is whether 14 the one year period for seeking relief from the order pursuant to 15 FRCP 60(b) began to run when the Elliott order was entered or on 16 the effective date of the dismissal.

17 In its October, 1986 order vacating its February 1986 order, 18 the bankruptcy court stated that it "was under the 19 misapprehension, created by the Debtor's Application, that Judge 20 Elliott's order had been entered not on November 29, 1984, but 21 rather on April 1, 1985." Having reviewed the Elliott order and 22 the docket, which revealed that no other order relating to 23 dismissal had been entered, the court concluded that the Elliott

24
25 <sup>3</sup> One of the exceptions is that a motion to reopen a case 26 is not subject to the one year time limitation of FRCP 60(b).
27 The Elliott order dismissed the case pursuant to Bankruptcy Code 28 section 1112 and Bankruptcy Rule 1017(a). A dismissal order is not an order closing a case, and FRCP 60(b)'s one year limitation therefore applies when relief from such an order is sought. See In re Income Property Builders, Inc., 699 F.2d 963, 965 (9th Cir.
1982).

1 order was the dismissal order from which Del Rio sought relief.
2 Because that order was entered more than one year before FRCP 3 60(b) relief was sought, the court concluded that it did not have 4 jurisdiction to vacate the Elliott order. Accordingly, the court 5 vacated the order that had vacated the Elliott order.

6 Del Rio argues that the Elliott order contemplated a second 7 order, to be entered April 1, 1985, that would actually dismiss 8 the bankruptcy. The Elliott order states: "It is hereby 9 ordered, that the Motion of Debtor be granted effective April 1, 10 1985, and, as of said date, that the within Chapter 11 proceeding 11 be ordered dismissed." Del Rio asserts that the inclusion of the 12 underscored language "demonstrates the clear intent that the 13 Elliott order was not to be the order dismissing the bankruptcy;"

14 We disagree. The tenor of the Elliott order is that Del 15 Rio's motion is granted, but that the dismissal is not effective 16 until April 1, 1985. Moreover, if a second order was to be 17 entered April 1, then the Elliott order is essentially 18 meaningless. According to Del Rio, the Elliott order grants the 19 relief, but only announces that another order granting the relief 20 will be entered at a later date.

21 Del Rio further argues that the notice of dismissal issued 22 by the clerk's office supports its contention. That notice 23 stated: "Notice is hereby given that an order was entered on 24

25 Del Rio makes a second argument that rests upon its first 26 argument. Del Rio asserts that the order that was to be entered 27 on April 1, 1985 was not entered because of a clerical error, 28 which, pursuant to FRCP 60(a), may be corrected at any time.
Del Rio asserts that the court can now correct the clerical error thereby making its motion for relief timely. This argument makes sense only if the Elliott order is interpreted to contemplate a second order and need not be separately analyzed.

#2151

, 1985, dismissing the above-entitled proceeding." Del

Rio claims that the notice caused it to believe that a second order had actually been entered.

Del Rio cannot claim prejudice because of the language in the notice of dismissal. Del Rio filed the motion to dismiss; its attorney attended the hearing on the motion; and, as the prevailing party, Del Rio's attorney drafted and submitted the Elliott order. The notice of dismissal is simply a form document designed to inform interested parties of the dismissal. The deputy clerk completing the form merely filled in the effective date of the dismissal. An outside third party arguably could assert that it relied on the notice to its detriment, but Del Rio is in no position to make such a claim.

As a further note, the record does not contain the transcript of the hearing on Del Rio's motion to dismiss. Without the transcript, however, there is simply no evidence that a second order was intended. Accordingly, we AFFIRM.

OFFICE OF THE CLERK
United States Bankruptcy Appellate Panel of the Ninth Circuit

NOTICE OF ENTRY OF JUDGMENT

Judgment was entered in this case as of the file stamp date on the attached decision of the Panel.

Motions for Rehearing

A motion for rehearing may be filed within 10 days after entry of the judgment. (Bankruptcy Rule 8015). A motion should not be filed to reargue the case, but only to direct attention to material facts, or points of law which in the opinion of the moving party the Panel has overlooked or misapprehended.

The motion shall be submitted on 8 1/2 by 11 inch paper, shall not exceed 15 pages in length, and shall comply with rules governing service and signature. An original and three copies shall be filed.

A motion for rehearing does not toll the time for filing a notice of appeal to the Court of Appeals. See In re Lovitt, 757 F.2d 1035 (9th Cir. 1985).

Bill of Costs

Bankruptcy Rule 8014 provides that costs on appeal shall be taxed by the Clerk of the Bankruptcy Court. Cost bills should be filed with the Clerk of the Bankruptcy Court from which the appeal was taken. Also see Rule 39, Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure.

Issuance of the Mandate

The mandate, a certified copy of the judgment addressed to the Clerk of the Bankruptcy Court from which the appeal was taken, will be issued 21 days after entry of the judgment unless otherwise ordered by the Panel. A timely motion for rehearing will stay the mandate until disposition of the motion, unless otherwise ordered. See Bankruptcy Rule 8017 and Rule 41, Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure.

Appeal to Court of Appeals

An appeal to the Court of Appeals is initiated by filing a notice of appeal with the Clerk of this Panel. See the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure and the Rules of the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit for specific requirements.
